Valuable:

As with any organization, your most valuable asset is your employees. They are the heart of your organization, and if they are not thriving, your company can't thrive. Ergonomically sound furniture and related accessories can dramatically increase productivity while providing a healthier work environment.

Sit, Stand, Move, Repeat.

Seating:

The average office worker sits behind a desk for 8 to 10 hours a day on a chair that was not designed for that purpose. As a result, employees suffer from neck and back pain, repetitive stress injury and general discomfort at work. Often times, these health issues will result in loss of productivity and missed days of work. Herman Miller has been the leader in designing ergonomic task seating that creates a healthier more comfortable place to work. Every task chair is designed with PostureFit technology which supports your sacral region-the area where the spine connects to the pelvis-and keeps your body upright and in healthy alignment. When a worker can be comfortable in a high performance ergonomic chair, they will better be able to focus on the important tasks at hand.

Sit-to-Stand:

Across America, the average person sits for 13 to 15 hours a day. Recent studies have concluded that sitting for prolonged periods of time has had dramatic effects on our health. As a result, employees miss work due to back, neck and repetitive stress injuries which cost companies in the United States approximately $7.4 billion a year and 3.5 million working days. These recent studies have also concluded that the practice of alternating between sitting and standing significantly reduces workplace injuries and other associated health risks.

 Engaged

Thrive:

There is no universal monitor, keyboard or lighting situation that will be right and comfortable for every worker. Adjustable accessories such as monitor supports, keyboard supports and personal lighting, let individuals have control over their own workstation environment.

Prevent eyestrain.

Reduce fatigue.

More comfortable.

Productive.
